Club Members meet at the recent Long Beach Show

Club member, Brad DePew, reports that five members of LSCC met for a some Seated coinage camaraderie. They held an open forum type of meeting; just five guys sitting around a table talking about coins. Discussion covered whether or not the minters stored dies in a safe when not in use, the benefits of having the new Half Dollar book in loose leaf form over bound, and the effect hoarding of certain dates has on values for the varieties. Interspersed was Show and Tell for coins they wanted to share and show off. A possible new dime variety was displayed and is being researched. They all enjoyed the conversation and agreed to meet again.

Auction News by Jim Gray

The Bowers & Merena

Philadelphia Sale featured an 1845-O dime in VF20 that was nice for the grade but did not sell. Two 1872-CC dimes were presented, one in XF40 that was cleaned and damaged with many pin scratches for $1,553 and a VG8 with the right obverse legend gone that did not sell. A lovely problem free 1873-CC with arrows in XF45 soared to $20,700. Two duplicates, one in XF40 cleaned and corroded went for $2,687 and a better XF40 piece that was cleaned and nicely retuned went for $6,900. An additional 1873-CC dime in VF25 with a nice obverse but weak on the reverse, particularly the denomination, did not sell.

An 1856-S/s quarter in G6 that was well worn and problem free went for $834. An 1857-S in XF45 with a dark mottled obverse only realized $920. An 1867-S in Fine 12 but very weak on the right side of Liberty did not sell. A well struck bright white 1869-S in MS62 was impaired by a dark area at DOL and did not sell. An 1870-CC in VF that had been cleaned but had nicely retuned in album sold for $8,050. An 1872-CC in VG8 and decent for the grade hit $1,725, while an 1872-S in VF20 with dark mottled toning did not sell.

An attractive 1873-CC with arrows half in AU50 realized $2,875.

The Heritage Long Beach Sale featured an 1843-O dime in VF30 with nice natural gray toning at $805 and a wholesome 1856-S dime in Fine 15 hit $748.

An 1852-O quarter in VF30 but soft on Liberty's head and the stars went for $2,185, while a bright white, well struck and mark free 1856-S in AU58 sold for $5,750. A deeply toned 1858-S in VF35 and very nice hit $3,105, whereas a corroded 1860-S in Fine 12 only eked out $403. A choice 1867-S quarter in MS62 that was well struck, with light gray toning, and only one finer at PCGS rang the gong for $18,400.

An 1855-S half was graded AU55 in spite of the wear being across the drapery line still managed $7,763, and an 1870-CC half with VG details but scratched and rim dinged went for $863.

A lightly toned 1851 original dollar in MS63 soared to $54,625. 1854 and 1856 dollars in AU50 and AU58, respectively, each sold for $5,175. An 1871-CC dollar in AU50 with slightly mottled toning hit a strong $20,700.

The Stack's Americana Sale had very few relevant Seated coins but did include a complete set of Liberty Seated dimes that were mainly in lower grades and many impaired. One multiple lot contained seventy-five coins. Other coins of relevance were an 1841-O closed bud in VF, but corroded, cleaned and retuned, still managed $1,725. An 1860-

O dime in Fine 12 hit $1,092, whereas a rough, cleaned and porous 1871-CC in VF did not sell. A cleaned and rough 1872 dime in Fine 12 hit $862. An 1873-CC in VG8, but dented and granular, went for $1,150 and a nice for the grade 1874-CC in G6 rose to $9,200. Two certified 1873-CC dimes that were not part of the collection were as follows: a VF 35 with nice medium gray toning for $10,063 and a F15 with deep steel toning did not sell.

Question of the Month

Topic for e-Discussion by Paul Kluth

A topic of obvious extreme importance at coins shows... Which Coin Shows/Conventions that you attend offer the best food? Which Shows aren't so good?

All responses are welcome! Please consider taking a few moments and sending in your thoughts and opinions. Send your reply to the E-Gobrecht editor at wb8cpy@arrrl.net.

Greer and Ahwash Plate Coins – PCGS Grading Results

By Gerry Fortin

It was time..... Considering the amount of effort to publicize the Top 100 Liberty Seated Dime Varieties and now, the Historical Collections initiative, it was time to start the third party certification process for raw Ahwash and Greer seated dimes. All of the Ahwash and Greer plate coins in my collection were secured during the early 1990s timeframe and mostly from Stack's or Brian Greer. A significant number of Ahwash plate coins appeared during the Stack's auction of the Allen F. Lovejoy Collection on October 16, 1990 followed by reappearances in subsequent Stack's or Coin Galleries auctions. Hours were spent checking each new Stack's auction catalog for the remote possibility of a resurfacing Ahwash plate coin until 1995 or so. After 1995, I believe the residual Ahwash plate coins were widely dispersed throughout the numismatic community if not place in several major collections. The acquisition of the Greer plate coins came about during the 1992 through 1996 timeframe as a result of a personal relationship with Brian during the final preparation stages of, "The Complete Guide to Liberty Seated Dimes." Brian desired to sell his collection and fortunately, I was one of the early buyers. I hoped to maintain some integrity for his guidebook collection for subsequent usage in a comprehensive seated dime varieties book that was in the planning stage at that time.

Many of the LSCC E-Gobrecht readers are aware that the Top 100 Liberty Seated Dime Varieties set is listed as an NGC Signature set, (<http://coins.www.collectors-society.com/registry/coins/ViewPersonalCollection.aspx?UserCollectionID=151&Tab=list>) again for publicity purposes. Unfortunately, I have been quite negligent in populating that online set due to most of the plate coins being used to illustrate the Top 100 set were raw; many came from the Ahwash and Greer collections. At the 2009 FUN show and the 2009 Los Angeles ANA, a portion of the Top 100 varieties and combination Ahwash and Greer plate coins were submitted to PCGS to "test the waters" on current grading standards. Current third party grading (TPG) gossip was that of conservative and tight grading. I was hesitant to spend considerable monies to certify circulated, AU and lower end mint state dimes if the grading was unreasonable only to crack out the results and enter the resubmission process. For circulated coins, the crack out and resubmission process was not financially attractive given the existing recognition of Ahwash and Greer plate coin among fellow collectors.

This article is a brief report on Ahwash and Greer plate coins results from the first two submissions. Rather than write an extensive commentary on whether PCGS under or over graded certain dimes, I will leave the judgment to the E-Gobrecht readers. There are many opinions when the subject of TPG is discussed. Grading standards have eased and tightened while these plate coins quietly sat in my collection. As the FUN and ANA submissions are examined, one can draw the conclusion that Brian Greer employed conservative grading during the sale of his collection. I hope you enjoy viewing the following grading result pictorial and descriptions.

If you own or are aware of Ahwash or Greer plate coins in the numismatic community, your help would be appreciated for documenting those dime within the Historical Collections module at www.seateddimevarieties.com. Please do not hesitate to contact me at wuximems@hotmail.com.

As Always.....Happy Hunting!

What happened to Roy Ash?

Some of the older club members may remember Roy Ash. Besides being an avid collector and researcher of 1842-O dated coins, Roy was a longtime member of the LSCC (member #159), he was a LSCC Vice President, had the “Autumn in the Shenandoah” coin business that routinely advertised in the Gobrecht Journal, and had a LSCC Question and Answer forum in the Gobrecht Journal in the mid-late 1980’s. Roy was a retired Air Force major who, when I last knew him, lived in the suburban DC area.

Roy abruptly ended contact with the LSCC years ago; there have been some rumors to his whereabouts but none have been substantiated.

I am interested in reestablishing contact with him. If you have any knowledge of his location, please email Bill Bugert at wb8cpy@arri.net.

From Len Augsburger: Another monster issue - good job!

From Gerry Fortin: All I can say is the September 2009 E-Gobrecht issue is a landmark for electronic publishing by LSCC members! I will load the issue in the website archives after returning home on September 15th. Keep up the excellent work and congratulations.

From Barry Stallard: Just finished reading the latest very pleasing issue - chock full of good stuff! I print out and also save every issue on my computer. It's fortunate that all past issues are available on Fortin's website, but, given the transient nature (planned obsolescence) of much of our computer software and hardware (new models and software), have there been any thoughts about someday printing up selected articles to preserve for posterity?

From Jim Gray: [Reference the Special Edition of the E-Gobrecht, issue #56] An overview of third party grading won the Literary Award not the Pryor research award.

Information Wanted on Half Dime Errors

I'm currently working on the large task of cataloging the known seated half dime errors known to collectors by date/mintmark. If you own any seated half dime errors, please send me an e-mail at the address below and provide the following information to make this survey as accurate as possible:

- Date and Mintmark of coin
- Type of error
- Grade
- Certification service if graded
- Photographs of both sides of the coin (if possible)

Information about any known errors including blank planchets is welcomed. The results will be published in an article at the end of this year. Dennis Hengeveld, Hengeveld.dennis@gmail.com

Notice: Availability of past issues of the E-Gobrecht

Through the generosity of Gerry Fortin, the previous issues of the E-Gobrecht are readily accessible on his seated dime web-site at <http://www.seateddimevarieties.com/LSCC.htm>
